Node.js Tutorial

Saturday, September 13, 2025   10:20 AM show you how to build a full stack web application from scratch this is how it'll work you visit a URL on the internet that points to your server when the request is received we can use node to handle the request and read a file from the server's file system and then respond back to the client so they can view the HTML in the browser